PRESS RELEASE

Benoît Clocheret joins Artelia as the Group's new CEO

Benoît Clocheret has been appointed CEO of the Artelia Group as of 1 January 2014.

A graduate of France's Ecole Polytechnique, Ecole Nationale des Ponts et Chaussées and Institut d'Etudes Politiques de Paris, Benoît Clocheret, 44, has spent his entire career to date in the Suez Environnement group. He became Chairman and CEO of the group's engineering subsidiary Safege in 2010 after occupying various managerial positions in France and the United States for Suez Environnement.

As CEO of Artelia, Benoît Clocheret will oversee all of the Group's operational and support service activities. According to Alain Bentéjac and Jacques Gaillard, joint Presidents of Artelia, "The appointment of Benoît Clocheret represents a major step in the construction of Artelia. His experience in the engineering sector and knowledge of the international market will contribute to reinforce the Group's unity and performance, and give it the means to continue developing in France as well as worldwide".

Since its creation in March 2010 through a merger between consulting engineers Coteba and Sogreah, Artelia has indeed strengthened its position as a leading European consultancy specialising in the building, infrastructure, water and environment sectors. The Artelia group has enjoyed sustained profitability and growth of more than 20% over the past three years, which it ambitions to strengthen and accelerate in the years ahead.

ARTELIA

Created in March 2010 through a merger between Coteba and Sogreah, the Artelia Group is fully owned by its managers and employees. It currently has a staff size of 3200 and an annual turnover of €348m (2012), thus ranking as one of France's foremost consulting engineering and project management firms in the construction, infrastructure and environment sectors. The Artelia Group has an international network of 40 offices in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, Asia and South America.
