Artelia strengthens its position in Brazil through acquisition of DPG Plan

Artelia Brasil, the Brazilian subsidiary of the Artelia group, has just completed the acquisition of DPG Plan. Based in São Paulo, DPG Plan has a solid reputation for engineering, architectural design and project management services in the fields of industry, logistics, office buildings, hospitals, ports facilities, and water and sanitation infrastructure.

This purchase consolidates Artelia's position in Brazil, enabling it to offer its local and international clients a wider range of skills in the various activity sectors of the group. It will likewise allow for Artelia to consider expanding its operations in Brazil on a scale that is in keeping with the challenges of this large country.

Through this transaction, the managers of DPG Plan who together held all its shares have become shareholders of Artelia, which is itself fully owned by its managers and employees.

ARTELIA

Created in March 2010 through the joining together of Coteba and Sogreah, Artelia is an international engineering and project management service provider in the building construction, infrastructure and environment sectors. Artelia is fully owned by its managers and employees, has a staff of 2,800 and an annual turnover of €317m.

Artelia is represented internationally via its 37 offices in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, Asia, and North and South America. Artelia Brasil is a fully-owned subsidiary of the Artelia group.

DPG Plan

Based in São Paulo, DPG Plan operates throughout Brazil. With its wide range of expertise, it provides consultancy, design and project management services, mainly for private-sector clients.
