Artelia, an international multidisciplinary consulting, engineering and project management group, announces that it has acquired on 19 December 2022, 100% of the capital of ProjektPlan GmbH, a German company based in Osnabrück in Lower Saxony.

A stronger presence in Germany

Specialized in architectural design and project management in the field of energy distribution networks for mobility, ProjektPlan GmbH has a team of over 20 experts. This acquisition strengthens Artelia's visibility in Germany, where it now has an office in Osnabrück in addition to its original office in Hamburg, thereby increasing the subsidiary's workforce to more than 120 people. It will enable the company to complete its range of expertise in this territory in the strategic market of renewable and new energies, mainly for mobility projects, but also for logistics and industry projects.

The concretization of an already existing and successful collaboration

By joining Artelia, Projektplan GmbH is consolidating the successful collaboration initiated several years ago with the German subsidiary of the group to carry out studies and engineering particularly on behalf of Oil & Gas retail clients. Integrated within Artelia, its teams now benefit from the support of a group of 7,000 employees covering all engineering services in the fields of industry, construction and infrastructure. Thanks to this merger, Artelia will be able to open up to a broader portfolio of clients in Germany from the world of energy distribution and industry.

Synergistic development based on mutual trust

Together, Artelia and ProjektPlan GmbH, which have built up a relationship based on trust over the years, will offer a full range of services that meet the expectations of their clients in terms of decarbonization for mobility energy distribution networks and building projects, from conception to commissioning.
